Novel Wager Is Open

R. H. Rand has a little moving picture house on Main street. He also has a strong hunch that Wilson will be re-elected Tuesday. — This hunch is in fact about a theatre worth strong.

For some days a group of men have talked of buying his Jitney playhouse. They also have been talking Hughes and offering to wager this and that.

Said Rand to them yesterday: "Now, you want a showhouse. Here's your chance. I'll wager the playhouse against the proposed purchase price that Wilson will be re-elected."

The talkers departed hence, but up to a late hour last night had not covered the proposition with money.

Betting continues to be at even money on the presidential candidates here. Morris money is offered at various odds, but mostly at 10 to 7.

One Salt Laker produced $10,000 for Wilson yesterday and instructed his betting commissioners to take all comers up to $100,000 that Wilson will be re-elected. So far but little of his money has been taken.

Another group of men laid out Wilson money yesterday in $100 lots. They offered to put it up as long as anybody would cover. They took on $2500 and there the Hughes money stopped.
